Find Online Forums

Forums can be a great way to meet with people who are dealing with credit issues. Don't forget to read the threads and see what common questions arise. Then you can address these questions and compile a great answer in the forum. If you are allowed to leave links you could link back to your site with additional related information.

Always read the terms and conditions on forums and see if you are allowed to leave a website link in your signature file.

To find credit related forums simply go to Google and type in the following search term. If you want local forums add your location.

Forums + credit repair

Forums + credit repair + your town

Here's a few forums to get you started.
